

UNIVERSITY OF BRADFORD

University of Bradford Rotary Peace Centre

Master in Peace Studies

The Rotary Peace Centre at the University of Bradford, established in 2002, selects Rotary Peace Fellows based on their ability to have a significant, positive impact on world peace and conflict resolution during their future careers. The ideal candidate holds a bachelor's degree in a relevant academic discipline. Students should demonstrate a capacity for critical independent thinking and possess a commitment to influencing their socio-political and economic environment.

Program overview

Specialization: Various MA programmes offered on the related fields of Peace, Conflict, Security, and Development

Department: Division of Peace Studies and International Development

Program: Advanced Practice in Peace building and Conflict Resolution; International Relations and Security Studies; Peace Resilience and Social Justice; Peace, Conflict and Development Studies; Sustainable Development

Indicative modules: Introduction to Peace Studies is a common core module for all Peace Studies students. Other modules offered include: Fragile States and the Security-Development Nexus; The African Study Visit; Applied Conflict Resolution; Cities in Conflict; Gender, Conflict, and Development; Peacekeeping and Peacebuilding; Religions, Conflict, and Peacemaking; International Politics and Security Studies. Please note the modules are subject to change.

Additional required courses: Core modules by program

Notable professors: Christoph Bluth, Neil Cooper, Owen Greene, Fiona Macaulay, Behrooz Morvaridi, Donna Pankhurst, Munro Price, Afshin Shahi

Length: 15 months beginning September

Established in 1973, the Division of Peace Studies (PS) at Bradford, in West Yorkshire, England, is the oldest and largest department of peace studies in the world. PS is widely recognized for its influential work with a wide range of policy, civil society, and other user groups both in the UK and abroad.

TOEFL/IELTS

English is the language of instruction. All applicants whose first language is not English must submit either TOEFL scores (internet: 80; listening 17, reading 18, speaking 20, writing 17) or IELTS score 6 (5.5 minimum each section).

Students by the numbers

- 130-150 master's level students in division
- 50-60 countries
- 60% under age 30

Website: brad.ac.uk/social-sciences/peace-studies/rotary-peace-centre/

Contact: Dr. Behrooz Morvaridi,
b.morvaridi@bradford.ac.uk